

TRURO HASH HOUSE HARRIERS

LANHERNE INN, NEWQUAY, 7TH February 2009

HARES: PC69, SLEAZY SNEEZY, HMV

Being allowed to escape West Penwith after the recent Arctic conditions, we headed for Newquay with a vague idea where we were going and came across a friendly 'Tesco man' along the way turning onto our road. 'Using our brains' as HB so often suggests, we decided to let him overtake and show us the way. Very pleased with ourselves we spotted the Lanherne Inn and then found ourselves following the 'Tesco man' beyond and right before we decided that perhaps we did know where we were going!!!

Arrivals complete, we toured some interesting parts of Newquay with a good mix of territory. The Hares had included most things, we had 'quality urban' and 'derelict urban', parks and gardens, plenty of mud along the estuary path for By Pass to land in (did she fall or was she pushed?), the fishing harbour, with special 'gig spotting' for BoBo's and a perfect spot for our 'nearly dry' and very illegal Hash Halt (should one really drink cider directly beneath the sign for an alcohol free zone?) and the obligatory beach run, with just a glimmer of sun, before heading back through the town centre which was looking sadly in need of a little regeneration.

The pub provided a welcome refuge and good roast dinners as the rain threatened. The 'Down Downs' in keeping with the current recessionary climate arrived in half pint glasses and were awarded to:

HB for being an SCB and avoiding the mud
 By Pass for embracing the mud
 Yakult for bringing her mud into the pub with her
 Furry for his 'big girls hat'
 Lisa for best 'ladies hat' of the day
 Shi'ite for Hare stalking
 Exkaliber for leading half the hash astray
 Dave for braving his first hash with us
 And lastly Papermate, for his food dependency habit, having bought chips before he got to the end of the hash!!
