

TRURO HASH HOUSE HARRIERS

VENUE PUNCH BOWL AND LADLE PENELEWEY

THE WORD ACCORDING TO PIGPEN

The Hares today were just Leverets and had to be hoisted on top of shoulders to deliver their pre-hash speeches full of the usual porkies concerning the dryness, shortness, flatness and wholesomeness of the forthcoming saga.

41 of us set off at a cracking pace, crossing the car park of the Punch Bowl and Ladle in a record storming half-hour, Lusty struggling to keep up, as usual.

I can't remember much else having used up my whole year's supply of stamina in one burst but I do recall with horror following our illustrious, anorexic and sylph-like Hash Master, Le Baron Rouge, through a conduit not much wider than him and having frightening thoughts of being blown out backwards if Lusty had given him beans for dinner. I don't know how we got through but we all popped out like corks into some delightful, diluted dung and showered to ensure we had all got perfectly drenched. I vaguely recall going on to another tunnel and surfacing in Calais, or maybe it was Cowlands, where we stopped to wait for Lusty and enjoy a drink or two. I can't remember seeing the blond bimboes on this hash. Perhaps they were still exploring the Wheal Jane area.

Then up the hill, along some paths and on-in. A very well set walk with all our favourite features including a Morlaix arrow, check backs, set backs with Co.Co. Chanel darting here there and everywhere hoping that no-one would spot her new trainers (she told me that she would lock up my stock of Viagra if I dobbed her in).

Well done the Leverets, MORE TEA VICAR and the other one who well deserved their half pint down-downs.

No hash prat tea shirt because Limpit is still using it as a night shirt and won't give it back

No Willy Warmer because Wishful Thinking is keeping it until she finds another Big Willy.

I can't remember who got the other down-downs so I'll leave spaces for you to fill them in :-

Down downs awarded to..... for.....
to..... for.....
to..... for.....

Marks for run 99.9. Marks for venue..I forget that as well.....